Primrose & West, Famous Minstrels.

AT MINER-NEWARK THEATRE. Primrose & West, with their brilliant company of musical merry-makers, are to follow next Monday night at this theatre. This will be a most unusual event of the season. Primrose & West are the acknowledged leaders in this style of entertainment. Other minstrel organizations have arisen, fought out their brief life, and dropped exhausted and defeated by the wayside. But you after year Primrose & West have not only kept their own, but have triumphantly advanced, capturing stronghold and citadel of public favor. To minstrelsy they have devoted their lives. Their air is their creed. Its performance is their ambition; its proud destiny the realized Mecca of their hopes and aspirations. They have advanced with it; they are bound up in it; they have devoted every energy. They have spared no expense in keeping this most genuine form of American amusement in the very front rank of popular entertainment. This year is the epitome of their career. Their entertainment is new from overtime to the final fall of the curtain. They have the best minstrel organization ever put together in America, and their appearance here should prove one of the happiest events of the amusement year as they present an entire new programme since their last visit. Sale of seats now progressing.

Broadway Theatre, N. Y.

Thomas G. Seabrooke and his own Comic Opera Company, will play the new opera at the Broadway Theatre, New York, for four weeks only, beginning Monday, May 14th. The scene of "Tabasco" is laid in Morocco, and the plot is as follows: The Pasha has a long-lying for highly seasoned food, which his cook constantly tries to satisfy. He has indifferent luck, however, in doing so, until by accident he runs across a strolling poulter, from whom he purchases a bottle of tabasco sauce, with which he tickles his master's palate at the next meal. So charmed is the Pasha with this spicy condiment that he insists upon having it on all occasions, and the small supply which the cook had on hand soon runs out to the latter's dismay. The displeasure of the Pasha is at once aroused, and he finally gives orders that by eleven o'clock on a certain night he must have a new supply, or else his chef shall pay the penalty of death. Wholly unable to gratify his monarch's wish, the chef makes his escape, accompanied by Captain Marco, a Spanish corsair, and the sweethearts of both. In their wanderings they accidentally run across the same poulter from whom the first supply of tabasco had been received, and they at once make a bargain with him to deliver at the palace that night at eleven o'clock sharp, a vast supply of the coveted sauce. They then return to the palace, and as the hour approaches, all are trembling with fear lest the poulter shall fail them. This, however, he does not do, but at the exact moment walks in with a huge bottle of tabasco, over which the Pasha goes into ecstasies, and all ends happily.

To The Public.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., APRIL 11. The undersigned herewith notifies the public that he has purchased the Jewelry Store No. 16 Broad Street, formerly owned by Dr. Felling, where he is prepared to do all kinds of repairing in an artistic manner. My twenty-two years of experience as watchmaker with the most prominent jewelers both Newark and New York is a sufficient guarantee of excellent workmanship. I most respectfully solicit the patronage of the people of Bloomfield, and of the trial will be enough to convince the public of my reliability and establish in this town my reputation as a practical and artistic jeweler.
